The transatlantic question

Charles Lindbergh's 33-hour flight from New York to Paris in 1927 made aviation history. Less known is the return flight to New York by two Frenchmen three years later. Taking just over three hours longer, Costes and Bellonte made an equally exciting journey from Paris to New York in their plane, the Question Mark. The first question they faced, Captain Costes remembered in an article at the time, was "Would the plane lift off the ground?" 'That was our greatest concern. We had 5,200 litres of gasoline on board.'

This fear passed quickly but was followed by other hazards. They ran into three storms. The third, and worst of all, was over Nova Scotia, in Canada. 'In order to avoid it we had to fly 100 miles out of our way. Time was passing and every minute meant the loss of more of our precious fuel.'

They had another problem: 'The sky was overcast, it was raining and we had to fly below those rain clouds. Sometimes they were extremely low which meant they had to fly as close to the water as ten metres.

'There were many exciting moments during our trip, but I think the greatest thrill came when we first saw the coast of North America,' said Costes. He decided that three was their lucky number. They had survived three storms – and at 3 a.m. French time, they saw land. But their adventures weren't over.

Suddenly, a mountain appeared out of the mist. 'We were between the steep banks of a river. It was a tight place. Bellonte was at the controls at that time and he had to think fast. Fortunately, having flown thousands of miles, the plane was light.' Bellonte managed to turn the plane just in time. But Costes said, 'It is not pleasant to think how close we came to those cruel, jagged rocks.'

Fortunately, they succeeded where many others before them had failed, and the graceful landing at the airport in New York was greeted by 10,000 cheering people. Among them was Colonel Charles Lindbergh who said 'I congratulate you!' as he shook the hands of the two heroes.

Участие в деловых играх предполагает несколько этапов, в том числе: самостоятельный подготовительный этап на основе вводных к заданию (например, создание необходимых планов и документов, изучение определенного объема вокабуляра и грамматических явлений); участие в коммуникации в рамках занятия; оценивание/взаимное оценивание и рефлексия (в т.ч. письменная) своего участия в игре.

Пример ролевой игры Agony Aunt Студенты делятся на пары и получают карточки с описанием проблем. Они должны дать друг другу 3 совета, используя конструкции «You should», «You shouldn't» и «You should have done…». Студенты должны корректно выразить свое мнение о проблеме и предложить пути ее решения.

Критерии оценивания участия в ролевой/деловой игре: 1. выполнение цели игры (достижение цели коммуникации), 2. языковая и прагматическая оформленность и правильность речи, 3) наличие (письменной/устной) рефлексии своего участия либо оценка участия коллеги.

3. Оценочные материалы итогового контроля (промежуточной аттестации) и критерии оценивания

Семестр 1, зачет.

Промежуточная аттестация происходит в виде комплексного тестирования, направленного на определение уровня сформированности индикаторов компетенций (ИУК-4.1, ИУК-4.2, ИУК-4.3), включающего в себя также задания на написание текстов и говорение.

Зачет в первом семестре проводится в смешанной форме. Промежуточная аттестация складывается из следующих составляющих: сдача комплексного зачетного или экзаменационного задания (40%), включающего:

тест на грамматику английского языка;

тест на знание деловой лексики английского языка

Результаты зачета определяются оценками «зачтено» и «не зачтено».

Студент имеет право проходить промежуточную аттестацию вне зависимости от результатов текущей. Оценка «зачтено» ставится в случае выполнения 70-100% от общего количества необходимых для аттестации работ. Оценка «не зачтено» - во всех остальных случаях.

4. Оценочные материалы для проверки остаточных знаний (сформированности компетенций)

The first film maker?

When we think of animated films, it's often Walt Disney's name that first comes to mind. However, there is another less-known person whose work is very important to animators. Eadweard Muybridge was a photographer who taught us more about animal and human motion than any other, and who, with his camera, recorded details that couldn't be seen with the human eye. It could be argued that he is also one of the very earliest cinematographers, coming up with a device which let him show moving images just like a film projector. He is particularly famous for discovering that, for a moment, a moving horse lifts all four hooves off the ground at the same time.

Muybridge was an Englishman who moved to the United States in the 1850s, taking up photography after he was seriously injured in a road accident. If he hadn't suffered serious head injuries when he was thrown out of a vehicle, he might never have chosen the creative profession that he did.

By the 1860s, Muybridge was already well known for his landscape photos of California, but in 1872 he was hired by a race horse owner to try and work out the exact sequence of movements of a horse. By placing cameras along the edge of the track, Muybridge managed to capture a series of images which he then copied on to a disc. Using his invention, the zoopraxiscope, he was able to create a little film which proved that horses moved quite differently from how artists used to paint them.

He then took thousands of images not only of animals, but also of people doing athletic activities and performing everyday tasks such as walking up steps, or throwing water from a bucket. As travel became easier, he was able to give lectures around the world. With his careful, patient art, Muybridge contributed a great deal to science. He didn't have a quiet personal life, however. In 1874, he killed a man, but was later acquitted of murder.

In 1893, Muybridge charged the public to see his moving images in a hall in Chicago that was built specially for the purpose. This building should really be called the first ever cinema. His extraordinary photos are still an invaluable reference for cinema animators.
